What is even more impressive than startups and Fortune 500 companies flocking to the area, is the film industry's growth and success, much of which is happening in southwest Atlanta. There is evidence of longevity in the film industry finding a southern home in Atlanta. Studios, such as Pinewood which has hosted Marvel films, are building permanent campuses. The state has funded educational institutions to further foster the growth, such as the Georgia Film Academy.

The median resident age for Union City speaks to the flourishing professional population coming in 5 years younger than the median age for a Georgia resident at 31 years old. Union City is nestled within a booming region for large corporations and residential real estate is in high demand with no signs of stopping.

National firms have flocked to the area including GE, Costco, Caterpillar, and Kraft Foods. E-commerce focused industry leads have recently set up their warehouse distribution facilities in Union City including ASOS, Proctor & Gamble, Amazon, and Walmart.

Hartsfield-Jackson Atlanta International is the busiest airport in the world for over twenty-one consecutive years. It is the area's largest employer with more than 63,000 airline, ground transportation, concessionaire, security, federal government, and City of Atlanta Airport tenant employees.
